Free on PC or Mac.Q: Why the prompt works on my production app server but not on my local machine? I have a Ruby on Rails 3.1 app and I'm working with Rspec and Capybara. When I run all of my tests on my local machine, I don't get a prompt for the username and password when I login to the app as a member. However, when I run the tests on the app server, I get prompted for the credentials and a login success message is displayed. Why does this happen? Is there some config change that I can make to get the prompt to show up on my development computer? A: It seems that the prompt is made available only after the RSpec configuration is complete. I was able to get the prompt to show up on my local machine by using
