Well... to be honest I found this picture while I was on one of the yummy food blogs I follow.... I'll post the link down there later today Well, talking about the recipe I'll share with you and it's actually one of the easiest and cheapest recipes I'll share with you today. The ingredients you need are: - 1/3 cup butter 3/4 cup brown sugar1 egg 1/4 cup milk2 package of any kind of chocolate chips2 package of any other kind of chocolate cookies (I like the cookies found in Lindt shop) And the cooking instructions: 1) Beat the butter and brown sugar with an electric mixer on high speed for about 5 minutes. Add egg and milk, and mix on high for 2 minutes. 2) Stir in chocolate chips and cookies. 3) Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet. 4) Bake at 350° for about 10 minutes, until golden. Okay, not everything I made was so easy as this one, some of them were more harder to make, but this is the recipe I like the most for cold season... it's so cheap and if you make for your friends or family... you'll see that the price is almost the same as your regular chocolate cookies/cookies (around 5 euros). For the other recipes I'll share later on today, I've been thinking for months and I've found the perfect recipe, it's so good, and I'm really excited to share it with you today so stay tuned!;) And now I leave you with this wonderful picture I found today, I'm really surprised that the guy does e79caf774b

A: Inception (2010) 720p BRRip [Dual Audio] [English Hindi]. epub means "encrypted portable document format", and is not an ebook at all. An ebook, or "electronic book" is not necessarily a PDF file: An electronic book is a book presented in the form of a digital object that may be stored on a digital device. But your file is actually a PDF, and is a hybrid (or e-book) rather than an ebook (directly rendered). From the epub tag wiki: epub is a format that supports plaintext documents that conforms to the PDF file format, but allows structured content (such as images.)

(shown in log) TheSingerSeri (:p.How to stop spam and cybercrime, of which email is the number one attack vector. The average receiver of over a billion spam messages a day, and it shows no signs of stopping. There have been three significant trends within the last decade for SPAM to occur: 1. The rise of spam-bots on internet cloud-based accounts. This is the most common variant of spam. Adverts and even malware and viruses are conveyed through SPAM-bots. Botnets are software-controlled devices distributed across the internet, which are programmed for different functions. Generally, these are used for network monitoring, spam-bot distribution or as denial of service attack (DoS) tools. 2. Artificial intelligence. Spam-bots and human-operated botnets are no longer the only means of distributing spam. Al-powered bots appear to be the
