Support the game and get awesome goodies in return! If you wish to see more content, please consider supporting the game. Thank you! About This Content Hey everyone! A long time ago, someone found a way to get to the Netherworld, but they are stuck in there. You can join them and enter the Netherworld, but you will have to pass all the Netherdwellers along the way! Some of the Netherdwellers are quite nasty, and don't just go by the book, and some of the Netherdwellers are a bit cute, and love to help, but some of them get a bit over-confident, and easily get themselves into trouble. Most of the people are mortal, and some are ghosts, who have just popped into the Netherworld for some fun! If you can pass them all, and make it to the Netherworld, then you can help your friend, and they can help you! If you can stay alive, you should be okay... But don't get cocky! Staying alive may be hard. You may run into all sorts of dangers, from Zombies to Spiders, who come out at night. Some things are even invisible. The Netherworld is a strange place, and it is a very scary place, too. After passing the Netherdwellers, make sure that you can hold your own, and make sure you can take on the challenges, and get your friend out of there. If you can't make it to the Netherworld, then you can't help your friend, and you may never get out! If you make it, you can bring your friend out, and you can even play with the Netherdwellers, in their own worlds! This is one of the craziest games out there. Mon 28 Apr 2011 1:00 pm Has Anyone Played The Guiding Light? (by Zesty Train)Having seen a few posts about it, I decided to give it a try. It seemed to be a very good game, but it was difficult to find out the exact controls to use because on the video, the character pressed buttons (including the right mouse button), selected things, used 'E' to teleport, and manipulated the camera. You can use the controls, but you won't be able to really use them as intended. So, I am a bit confused about some of the controls. The 'F' key looks like it could be used for selecting something, or moving somewhere, but I got confused on how to use it. I was wondering if I could get some clarification on how to use it. Also, there are two covers for the front and back sides. I tried to use them, but there were no success. Luckslinger Description:

Luckslinger first got my attention since it works purely in-browser and has no install necessary. But mainly I am an old-school gamer who likes to play in a browser. Luckslinger is an interesting free flash game that is multi-player and you can play against others that are on a different computer. The Luckslinger is basically a simulation type game where you will draw something on a board and as long as you draw something that falls on an area of the board called the "lane," you score points. You can play in single or multiplayer mode, the only difficulty will be to keep those ears away from the computer. You can play Luckslinger in just about any web browser. All you need is Flash enabled and the latest version of chrome, firefox, or Internet Explorer. The actual computer-based game is Java-based, the game is loaded into the Browser and then converted to FLASH and uses the FLASH player instead of the standard player that will be loaded in the Browser. The advantage is that you don't need any further installs.
