As is apparent from the above articles, the typology provided in the present invention greatly enhances the abilities of a motorcyclist by enabling them to better relate to situations on the road, and allows the motorcyclist to react more quickly and efficiently to difficult road conditions and common problems. In my pending U.S. patent application Ser. No. 10/491,469, filed May 20, 2004, entitled Method of and Apparatus for Safe Operation and Display of Speed of Motorcycle, the purpose was to provide, among other things, a simple and effective method for a motorcyclist to relate his velocity in road milesper-hour (m.p.h.) to his surface speed in feet-per-second (f.p.s.). This patent application was not intended to be a comprehensive listing of all the prior art which may be used to practice the methods, apparatus and apparata described in this application. Rather, this application is intended to be merely illustrative of the level of skill in this art. It is, therefore, not intended to limit the scope of this application in any way whatsoever. Many of the articles cited herein are cited in this pending patent application. Why are the stock market investing strategies wrong? Have you ever wondered why some investors with millions of dollars manage to prosper while others with only a few hundred dollars barely survive in the stock market? In today's game, the term "savior" is often used in reference to investors who have amassed massive wealth in the stock market. But why is it that some investors do well while others who look pretty similar or act a lot like them don't? The truth is, most investors don't understand what they're doing. They enter the market with the wrong goals in mind and/or without the proper time-tested strategies in place to achieve those goals. But the market is volatile, making it hard to plan your investments with precision. How can you do well when the stock market is going up as well? How 0cc13bf012
