HyperMotion Technology brings the gamer one step closer to real football. Every action from the players is captured in the game – with the game using an on-board motion-capture rig. These efforts will be put to the test on Xbox One, where we’ll gather a FIFA community and see how they rate the changes made to all aspects of the game. Features: Features: HyperMotion Technology (game engine): The use of real-life player data captured during the high intensity, high excitement match will be used to craft the action in FIFA. Every ball, shot, pass, tackle, tackle, head butt, aerial duel and run will be powered by the movement data. Running mechanics: Every player in the game can sprint with different speeds and acceleration. Playing over the ball will allow players to glide on to the ball, either by initiating a tackle or by sprinting towards a ball while airborne. Ability to make quicker runs and sprints will have the effect of you moving faster, while sprinting with the ball will extend your jump over longer distances. Conditioning/fatigue: Every player has an inbuilt fatigue system, which can be affected by play, fitness, diet and form. Movement: Players in FIFA are more mobile and agile than in previous FIFA titles. Players will have a range of movement, with greater range of movement increasing the further away from the centre circle players are. Defending: Player positioning is the focus of defending with multiple defensive schemes, including compact defending and spread defence. Players are more aware of their positioning and we'll see more defenders on the goal line and fewer on the goal line, with fewer players further up the field. Ball retention: How a player obtains the ball, the way in which he or she is able to handle the ball will be analysed, with players carrying the ball in different ways (e.g. running with the ball, dribbling the ball). Interaction: The handling and off-the-ball behaviour of players will be a subject of analysis, with the speed at which players can pass or make tackles depending on their on-ball movement. Central Defence: The defensive lines in the game will move to the goal line, with more coverage at the back in defence. Use of players in defensive roles (e.g.

FIFA, the Football Association of Europe, is the largest European sports federation and the governing body for football (soccer) in Europe. The FIFA World Cup™ , the world’s biggest sporting event, is held every four years and the finals are played every two years. FIFA 20 Player Ratings New in FIFA 21 - Player Ratings! Now the Player Ratings are part of the game from day one. Therefore, you will be able to see how the players have changed and what changes have been made. You can now notice if a certain player has been damaged or is in your squad and what their status is - if they are injured or have been dropped. For more on Player Ratings, read our new article on this here. Brand-new Attribute +Pre-show Personality Attribute FIFA 21 introduces a brand-new Attribute that gives you some insight into the personality of the player before he plays a game. A unique Personality Attribute allows you to learn more about your best players and if they display any behaviors or have any traits that you should know. These Attributes are personal, so you'll see more to all of your players than the general set of stats that you've been accustomed to. Pre-show Personality FIFA 21 now goes a step further by introducing a new attribute called Pre-show Personality. While you might know some players, you don't always know the true story of who they are before they step on the field. This will tell you what the player is like before they step on the field. Leadership My dribbling abilities are getting better and better. This is a first and I can't wait to use them in-game. Mentality Traits of his Personality How Did I Score? Career Mode Career Mode is a brand-new experience in FIFA. You won't have any team or clubs as in the previous games - everything is completely new. If you are an Ultimate Team player you can choose to compete in the FIFA World Cup or a variety of continental cups such as the UEFA Champions League and UEFA Europa League. When you create your new career, you can select which top European club you want to play for. You will then travel the world, play friendlies against other clubs and you will then get your chance to prove yourself as
