The Trap is a nightmarish adventure game set in a dangerous and ancient labyrinth. Sink into an eerie world on the brink of madness, where all hope is lost... or is it? You are trapped inside the labyrinth. Every passing minute is another day, and you can't go back! Now, using a flashlight, you have to find the exit. But where are you going to find that? The Labyrinth contains numerous obstacles and monsters. The traps range from easily solved to dangerous puzzles, and your flashlight will only last as long as you need to solve them! The passage of time is clearly visible here. Your flashlight will only last as long as the monsters you encounter, as well as the amount of light you need to find the exit. The longer you're trapped in the labyrinth, the darker it will get. Only the smallest amount of light will be enough to find your way out. You can find all sorts of traps lurking in the rooms. Use your flashlight wisely to solve puzzles, avoid traps and survive the game. The entire world has been turned upside-down, the objects and monsters are looking for you, and everything is trying to make you mad. If you fall into a panic, your flashlight will go out, and you will find that the passage of time has stopped. Monsters and traps may appear from both sides of the door. You will have to flash your way out through the labyrinth to survive and find the exit. Features: - Use flashlight to overcome danger and pass dangerous traps, and solve puzzles in order to escape! - To survive, and pass through the game you must avoid traps and monsters - Play with phobias! If you're afraid of every small thing, you'll be fine in The Trap! - Use all sorts of traps and monsters to your advantage! For example, a flashlight's beam can be your only weapon, but you can use it against monsters and other phobias! - A whole set of unique game mechanics built on flashlight usage and blinking in order to survive! - Keep track of your progress and take notes using a journal

Requirements: - To experience even the slightest gameplay, the following system requirements are needed: - Dual Core CPU @1.5 GHz or better - 1GB RAM or better - 300MB of free HDD space - Windows 7 or higher - OpenGL 1.2 or higher - Direct X 9.0c - Framework 3.5 -

You are the director of the biological, geographical and geological collection for your museum. The earth's surface is your territory to explore. Dig out and analyze the rock samples you find on this territory. Lay out the collections in your museum. Discover over 600 geological finds across 70 worldwide landscapes in this turn based, single player rock identification game for Windows and Linux/Steam OS on the PC. Downfall is a procedural generation based platform game that requires you to guide a mushroom stalk called a Deodeus from its roots to its final growth. One randomly selected move would generate a new level and a new Deodeus. You can select random or save your previous moves to guide the growth of your mushroom. The player is given 5 minutes to identify each block as they move up the heightmap. If a block is identified incorrectly, that block cannot be moved anymore. When a mushroom has reached its final growth, it is harvested and grows a new mushroom to make a new room for you to explore. Although it sounds like a puzzle game, it is more of a survival game. Your mushroom slowly grows up the heightmap, which is procedurally generated, until you encounter a mine, a trap, an impassable wall, or a monster. A monster will kill your mushroom if it is within range, causing the end of your game. You begin as a mushroom growing from the roots of a tree that is near the ground. You need to get to the other side of the map to open up new areas. As you move up the heightmap, you unlock new challenges in different environments including: jungle, desert, forest, volcano, mountaintop, sea level, winter, valley, extreme, ice and sky. The 'block' type system is not as easy as it sounds. Many blocks have two layers, a clear layer and a next layer. A block has one attribute of the next layer or clear layer. A block has 16 attributes depending on the block type: magnetic, mechanical, thermal, optical, chemical, biological, mineralogical, geochemical, isotopic, radioisotopic, petrographic, acoustic, geological, nuclear, and meteorological. Identifying and charting the block increases each attribute by one level. If you identify the block correctly at a level it will unlock the next attribute and so on until the 16th attribute is unlocked. Each block is identified with a level of difficulty.

Baby "Downfall Baby" is a song by American singer-songwriter Lana Del Rey and features guest vocals by American rapper Tyler, The Creator. It was co-written by Del Rey and Kathleen Ross, and produced by Ross. It was released on December 12, 2015 by Interscope Records through record label eOne Music and distributed by Target Distribution. The song primarily uses Midwestern rapping and southern rap styles. Lyrically, the song comments on a person suffering because he has not learned from the American government's social experiments of the late 1960s and early 1970s. The song was inspired by Del Rey's visit to an abandoned house in Austin, Texas and the possibility of other people being left behind from the nuclear fallout.

"Downfall Baby" was used extensively on DJ service podcasts in the summer and fall of 2015, and it was also included on Three Trapped Tigers' EP, Three Trapped Tigers (2015) as a promotional single. It became Del Rey's eighth consecutive top ten hit on the US Billboard Hot 100, reaching number four, and was certified gold by the Recording Industry Association of America (RIAA). Critical reception Several music critics likened "Downfall Baby" to similar songs by singer-songwriters such as Imogen Heap, Christine and the Queens, M83, and Astrid S. Ross. The digital edition of The New York Times referenced the song's resemblance to artists of the Hüsker Dü and Blue Cheer genres. The song has been compared to Gloria Estefan's career-spanning song "Please Don't Go Lover" and is reminiscent of Blondie. It has also been referred to as a recurring theme in Del Rey's music. The song was ranked at number 70 on the Triple J
