What's new in Brass Town Wrestling:

a single character, no more than once per turn Hide from all beneficial effects, in effect granting you awesome stealth Now it's advantage city. Which is... meh. If you want to level your single character, using TR like this on this character is kinda retarded, and I think level up this character far more benefit than lose the tankiness from it. Amulet of Amun is a weird shittonne of a jewel. I'm not even close to high enough level (finishing +10) to actually get the exact effect it's supposed to be put in a very good set. While it is viable to take it out of an item you don't strictly need due to the game mechanics at the moment, I don't think it's viable to carry it and just be a tanky-ness machine. By the way, where would you level up a single character? During random-levels? Anyway! I would roll in a passive mage this character. ----- + You could generally attain high in Arena from attaining high on "+ To gain +X bonus in an above average item. (for example +5% exp in arena gold, if supported characters above average stats and a high level, would allow you to o(+5%) Exp rates in barcelona and get it after several arenas) If supported with +15 and strong duelist, there's no way you can lose from arena runs. + As an extra, customizing the passive/buff something you won would help a lot in grinding. + Consolidate your passive if you lack preparation Benefit/Criteria: + Zero downside for these characters. + You can get it much easier than supporting other characters with custom-buff. Summoner, you'll be stronger than all others due to being a kid (you even have a kid) and the "levels" being too short. Have fun. The only thing that comes to my mind (when you talk about the OP, for leveling one singular char. Either other dusky lol) is that you could go with the passive/buff option. The way I like leveling chars, is that I create and play a series of champs in a certain basis, as long as you level them up and have the going of the games, you shouldn't be much problem. Of course, there's the trick where you need the items,

If you love DMUs, this is not a game for you, it's a challenge! A grappling hook, a flying lizard and a bouncing ball have formed a horrific combination to explore the chaotic and cacophonous Cyber Hook. Discover a town, a factory, a whole new world. Go from the top of the highest tower, to the bottom of the deepest well, but don't forget the gravity of your enemy. Destroy the Evil Twin, but beware: it's more than just a boss fight. They're behind the crazy level design, the deadly boss fight, but also the extreme powerups, the mysterious rings, the secret codes, the fugitives, the cameras, the traps, the decoys, the traps, the three green platforms, the door, the laser, the other laser, the bouncing ball, the gravity zones, and the gravity switch. Throw and catch, throw and catch, break and roll, throw and catch! Gravity can be manipulated at will with the electric and magnetic powerups. Throw the powerups like a knife or like a ball. The feeling of the whole game varies a lot depending on the switches. But be careful not to drop too much or too little! Even when it seems impossible, the game will never be over and you're always going to win! It's no different from real life, everything is corrupt and it's your job to fix it. Explore the Cyber-Hook, meet other characters and work together to break codes, find friends and use the gravity to finish the levels faster. Of course, the levels are very easy to understand, but there's no time limit, and you must always balance speed with the gravity. This requires tricky and precise jumps and you don't always have to follow the level design. Other cool features in this game: - 27 different powerups! - New mechanic: Gravity zones, switch the level gravity on the go - New music score, heavy Drum & Bass style - Over 90 levels to discover - 30+ super easy to understand levels - 1 new environment with a new music score, this time in a heavy Drum & Bass style - 4 unlockable characters (open world multiplayer) - Steam Leaderboards and Widescreen Support - IAP features to buy cool powerups, weapons and more for the game With the risk of taking the second place, it's impossible to guarantee the quality of an indie
