I am a mother of 2 children, 5 year old boy and 3 year old girl and also own 2 dogs.1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a three dimensional shape measuring apparatus, and more specifically, to a three dimensional shape measuring apparatus for measuring the shape of a three dimensional structure such as an airplane fuselage, a ship hull and the like. 2. Description of the Prior Art There has been proposed a three dimensional shape measuring apparatus for measuring a three dimensional structure by means of an ultrasonic wave technique. In this apparatus, a linear ultrasonic wave or a circular arc ultrasonic wave is transmitted from a pulse transmitter in a state where the ultrasonic wave path is limited. The waves are received by a transducer which is scanned in a circumferential direction or a linear direction of the target object. A required coordinate is calculated on the basis of the propagation time of the received ultrasonic wave from the pulse transmitter to the transducer. This coordinate is applied to a measuring scale and can be displayed for measuring the shape. However, it is impossible to obtain the correct ultrasonic wave incident angle from the pulse transmitter to the object, because the direction of the ultrasonic wave in a three dimensional space has heretofore been unknown. Therefore, when the angle between the transducer and a normal of the target object is set to 90 degree in the above described conventional apparatus, the ultrasonic wave may not be incident normally to the surface of the target object.
