then you noticed the fact that the police team had never received any money as witnesses. they had just given the same amounts as the cash they had received. you decided to generate a fake crime scene. then you simulated the crime that had occurred the night before. you asked the witnesses to collect the money from the locked safe and take the case to the police team leader and the crime record. you asked the witness to collect the money and take the case to the police. this would eliminate the fact that the police team were not witnesses. you knew that they would witness the money collected from the safe. the witnesses handed money to the team leader. the team leader took the same money from the safe and gave it to the witnesses. then you asked the team leader to write down the amount collected from the safe by the witnesses. the team leader said that the amount written on the official record was higher than the amount they had received. therefore, the team leader gave the police officers more money than they had received. then the police officers counted the money and gave the witness a receipt for the amount received, the amount written on the official record was higher than the money received. you asked the witnesses to get ready to follow the leader to the police office. then you followed them. to your great surprise, the team leader was unable to produce the original case document that contained the amount they had received from the safe. you asked the witnesses to take the original case with them. you showed the witnesses that the evidence was as it was supposed to be and persuaded the witnesses to lie that the original document had been lost. your plan worked! the witnesses took the case with them and sent it to you by e-mail.
