in the first half of the 20th century, the musical preference of african americans turned more toward jazz, and their musical tastes became more diverse and exciting.[7] jazz is an art form and sound that originated in america. it was a rhythm and blues-influenced music, which is a result of the combination of jazz and rhythm and blues. details: lift is a year-long initiative to create an ethnically and culturally diverse theatre company, performance company and a playwrighting program that is focused on the production of original plays, new musicals and a season of world premieres. lift will be hosted by the academy of hawaiian arts and letters and the maui arts and cultural center. details: this site is a catalog of all the catalogs, calendars, and prints that were created in the 1920s-1990s for ah paa publishing and egmont publishing co., including the moorea tree seed trade catalog and the u.s. department of agriculture plant exchange catalog. the site also includes a short history of the company, and information about the company's founders. rise up andra day is a featured article, which means it has been identified as one of the best articles produced by the disney wiki community. if you see a way this page can be improved without compromising previous work, please feel free to contribute. if you see this message, it means your browser has javascript disabled. our website requires javascript to be enabled in order for it to function correctly. if you need help enabling javascript, please call us at 732-262-2900, ext 256 during normal business hours.the long-term goal of this proposal is to elucidate the molecular and cellular basis for myopia. it is well known that the ocular components of myopia include the choroid and sclera, extraocular muscles, and the retina, with changes in the rate of growth of all of these tissues being responsible for myopia. how the growth rate changes are determined is completely unknown. current data show that during early myopia progression there is a marked increase in the rate of protein synthesis and the rate of extracellular matrix production in the choroid and sclera of myopic eyes, and that the choroid and sclera respond independently to the progression of myopia. these data may indicate that one of the causes of myopia progression is an increase in the synthesis of extracellular matrix proteins. if this is the case, the response of the choroid and sclera to increased synthesis of extracellular matrix proteins suggests that these tissues may also be an important factor in the progression of myopia. we hypothesize that the choroid and sclera, as well as the extraocular muscles, work together in the induction and progression of myopia. we further hypothesize that the rate of protein synthesis and the rate of extracellular matrix production in the choroid and sclera are responsible for the progression of myopia. these hypotheses will be tested in an animal model of myopia, the guinea pig, using the enucleated eye model of myopia. aim 1: to evaluate the role of the sclera in the induction and progression of myopia. a. determine the sclera contribution to myopia progression in the enucleated eye using a muscimol blockade of the scleral retraction reflex. b. determine the sclera contribution to the induction of myopia in the intact eye using muscimol blockade of the scleral retraction reflex. c. determine the sclera contribution to myopia progression in the intact eye using a muscimol blockade of the scleral retraction reflex.

we want to balance our range of actors with a strong adult contemporary cast. we want the entire audience to feel comfortable. we strongly believe in the social justice message and do not endorse any political party. therefore, only actors interested in portraying socially progressive, positive role models/characters please audition. we have characters for male and female adults and older teens. fantastic booking with a fabulously talented cast of seasoned performers including a few from our old company, a couple of new faces, and, of course, our spectacular and funny director & pianist, marc boudrias. we performed the saturday matinee in the charming, intimate, idyllic greenlight theater in brick, nj. we've worked for many years together, marc and i, since the weeks when we were in college together. when andra day & an l.e.g.o.n was first written with him as our musical director, we set out to please and challenge him and each other. we set out to explore the most interesting themes in the script and to really make each other laugh. and we did. in writing this performance, however, we were reminded of a time when we would make the musical and build a bridge between it and the world outside the room in which we were making it. we would bring in music and dancers and choreographers from the company we were working with, or from the community around us. and in doing so, we would help the community to understand the play. it is amazing to me that when a play is a great piece of art it can make us forget that we need to be people, that the play is about people. but in fact, the greatest work of art is when it makes us remember to be people. 5ec8ef588b
