Capture and save Keyboard events on your Mac. KEYMACRO is an application that records keyboard events, and saves them as clips. You can later view and edit clips by dragging the mouse onto a screen, and the most recent Clip (depending on the volume of events it records) will automatically be loaded. Why would you need to record keyboard events? It would be a pretty useful feature if you plan to create a fast and smart shortcut keys on your Mac. You can set up a keyboard macro and key combination to perform a specific action, and save it to a clip, which you can play back later. This application is perfect for anyone who is tired of manually navigating to certain programs and features on their Mac. Keyboard macro can be used to perform multiple actions, and can be set up by the number of keystrokes that need to be pressed (single keystroke equals one action) or a combination of commands like Ctrl+Alt+2+3=Menu+Sleep+Numlock+Reset, etc. Also, it's possible to save the current keyboard layout and lock it, so the shortcuts you set up don't change when the Mac is restarted. Keyboard macro can be stored on the clipboard, which allows you to copy, print, share and send the clip by email. For each clip, you can set up a title and description, and assign a key shortcut to play back the clip. Who would use this application? Anyone who is tired of spending time and effort to set up shortcuts on their Mac. What do you need to set it up? First, you need to have either Keyboard Maestro or Karabiner-Elements installed. Then, simply create a Keyboard Macro and set it to the actions you want to set up. Editing and creating new Keyboard Macros is also easy, just open the application and drag the mouse onto the clip area to play it back. When you set up a key shortcut, it will also be added to the Clip section of the application. You can also export the clip to the clipboard, so you can copy it and send it by email, or send it as attachment to a Mac via AirDrop. Is there a trial version? Yes, there is.

You can use it without spending any money. It is also possible to access the trial in the background, and it will update itself every 30 minutes. FEATURES AND BENEFITS: Monitor System activities: Monitor 2edc1e01e8
