PhotoPad Image Editor Professional License Keygen Free Download.Q: Netlogo equivalent of Emacs' own-style in Stylus I recently switched over to Emacs because of the superior UX and I have grown to love the concept of C-x C-s (interactively save), C-x C-e (interactively reload) and M-x magit-refresh-working-tree. In addition, I like that it keeps a record of the last line that I last edited, which is helpful for what I do in Netlogo (I use M-e, M-c, M-s and M-r before editing the code). In the past, I used a simple script to update the last line that I have edited from the last time I opened a file to the time I save (or close, doesn't really matter which). #!usr/bin/env

```python
""" Typically called from emacsclient. """
import sys
import time
""" Save a buffer's current content. """
def save_buffer(buffer):
    f = sys.stdout
    start_time = time.time()
    content = ''
    for line in buffer.getLines():
        content += line
    end_time = time.time()
    diff = end_time - start_time print("Saved buffer content: %s" % content) print("Time to save = %s seconds" % (diff))
    f.write(content)
    f.flush()
""" Called from Netlogo while editing a file. """ def save_now():
    ''' Save a buffer, but only when in Netlogo and Netlogo is not exited. ''' print "In the "save_now" function."
    save_buffer(get_buffer_of_contents
